Democracy and Peace

Restoring Human Dignity and Honour

Democracy is an apparently inaccessible dream, always pursued as a societal ideal but hardly ever attained. Nations have, until now, only experienced moments of democracy. These are the periods when peacemakers have awakened people's consciousness towards restoring the honour and dignity of all citizens.

Such was the endeavour of Martin Luther King, Mother Teresa, Shirin Ebadi and Eleanor Roosevelt. Although their religion, origins and means were different, these peacemakers used them as ways of awakening people from passivity and unconsciousness. Peacemakers have always strived to restore the dignity of all citizens, irrespective of whether they are among the ranks of oppressors or the oppressed masses. This is the nature of true democracy, where the question of honour and dignity applies to all, without exception. In such a model Man's basic needs are fulfilled by nurturing body and soul.

It is incumbent upon every citizen to listen to the great voices of peacemakers who, like the Prophets and Saints sent to humanity, call out to fill the emptiness of hearts. We can no longer afford to let a deafening silence occlude the call to our consciences.
